

DETAILED PERSONAL BIBLE STUDY

This Detailed Personal Bible Study includes a great deal of supplementary information from the Kingdom Interlinear Translation regarding the specific words used in the Greek text, verifiable dates for both Hebrew and Greek words, and information regarding the use of the Tetragrammaton in Hebrew versions.

Nonetheless, it is a personal Bible study in which you will need no other reference books aside from the Kingdom Interlinear Translation which we would encourage you to use for your Greek Scripture text. You will only need to read the interlinear English translation and compare it with the New World Translation side-bar text. However, you will want to look at the Greek words Kyrios (or Theos) in each of the verses you study. You will also want to read the "J" footnote at the bottom of the page. Of course, you will also use your New World Translation as you study the Hebrew Scripture passages.

Your objective in this study is to evaluate each of the 237 occurrences of "Jehovah" in the Christian Scriptures. In those instances where a Hebrew Scripture passage is cited, you will particularly want to compare each Christian Scripture verse with the Hebrew Scripture passage from which it was quoted. Ask yourself why the Christian Scripture author chose that particular verse to quote, and what the verse is actually saying about Jehovah in the Hebrew Scriptures. You will soon discover that it becomes very important to determine whether or not the Tetragrammaton or the Greek word Kyrios (Lord) was used in the original writing of the Christian Scriptures. Study each "J" reference note carefully, considering the date of each Hebrew version and Greek manuscript. (The date for each Hebrew version's translation and the Greek manuscript is given in the front of the Kingdom Interlinear Translation in the section Explanation of the Symbols Used.)

You may also want to read the introduction to the accompanying Personal Bible Study for additional suggestions.

This Detailed Personal Bible Study is available on this site in both PDF format for easy use and Microsoft Word format so that you can download it for additional study if you wish. For additional information, refer to Appendices A, B, and C in the downloadable book THE TETRAGRAMMATON AND THE CHRISTIAN GREEK SCRIPTURES.

Summary

					NWT	Heb. Scrip. quote		None
					237	112 ¹⁵		125 ¹⁷

² In keeping with recognized Greek capitalization style, the Westcott and Hort Greek text of the Christian Greek Scriptures uses an upper-case letter only for a proper noun and the beginning of a quotation.

³ Bold type identifies the reference as coming from J²⁰ wherein the divine name is listed.

⁴ The Greek word theou (God) is written with a lower-case theta.

⁷ This passage is shown in the Bodmer 14 and 15 (P⁷⁵) manuscripts showing a date of circa 200 C.E. The Bodmer 14 and 15 manuscripts record no use of the Tetragrammaton. Thus, the Greek entry of Kurios as shown was used in approximately 200 C.E. ("All Scripture Is Inspired of God and Beneficial," p. 312, 1983 edition. Also see the Kingdom Interlinear 1985, p. 15.) The date of 301-400 C.E. used in this appendix reflects the date shown in the footnote of the Kingdom Interlinear Translation which is restricted to Greek manuscripts \aleph AB.

¹⁰ See footnote in the New World Translation Reference Edition for this verse.

¹³ This passage is shown in the Chester Beatty 3 (P⁴⁷) manuscript dating from the 3rd century C.E. The Chester Beatty 3 manuscript records no use of the Tetragrammaton. Thus, the Greek entry of Kurios is verified by P⁴⁷ as dating from 201 to 300 C.E. ("All Scripture Is Inspired of God and Beneficial," p. 313.) The date of 301-400 C.E. used in this appendix reflects the date shown in the foreword material of the Kingdom Interlinear Translation.

¹⁵ The total of 58 includes all instances of subject or parallel-thought Jehovah cross references.

¹⁷ The total of 64 includes all instances of Jehovah cross references irrespective of the content of that citation, and inclusive of the 58 previously tabulated.

Note 1: The summary totals expressed in footnotes 14 and 15 must be used cautiously. Aside from the J²⁰ citations which can be counted with certainty, the distinction between such categories as, 1) Hebrew Scripture quotation using the divine name, 2) Hebrew Scripture quotation referring to the divine name, 3) Cross reference citation only, and 4) No quotation or reference to the Hebrew Scriptures are difficult to assign with certainty. Consequently, the numbers given in summary of these categories do not represent absolute values. The reader is encouraged to do his own search to determine the appropriateness of the assignment of each of the 237 references to any one of the various tabulated columns.

Note 2: The value of the number 20 in footnote 13 is as significant as the values of the figures 42 and 50 in the previous column. That is, a Greek Scripture writer is able to faithfully attribute a quotation to "Jehovah" when the divine name is contextually understood, even though the Hebrew Scripture source does not actually use the divine name in the verse itself. Thus, the number of times a Hebrew Scripture verse containing the divine name is quoted by a Greek Scripture writer is 112. The division between the two columns was made for interest and precision, but does not represent a difference in importance.
